THE THREE GREAT POWERS

D-Day unleashed a flood of predictions of when the war will end. One fellow says, "the New Year", another "next summer", yet another sets the date in 1946. Last week in London, Prime Minister Churchill warned that it will take "the full exertions of the three powers, (The British Empire, United States and Russia), every scrap they can give to crush down the desperate resistance which we must expect from this military antagonist at last beaten back to his lair."

The "three great powers" are made up of every last man, woman and child living in all those countries. It may not always be easy to see how our individual lives affect the outcome of the war, but it is unquestionably our individual effort that makes up the united effort of the whole. We back up Canada by buying war bonds and certificates, and by accepting the restrictions of the government with our best grace. But what about the way we live in our homes and conduct our businesses? Divided homes can't back a war one hundred percent.

Take the question of appeasement—when it happens between countries we have seen that war is the pay-off. We are quick to recognize and criticize appeasement in our leaders, but what about appeasement in our homes? Appeasement—letting things slide and doing a second-rate job—creates division and resentment wherever it is.

Constant criticism in a home saps the family of its ability to work together and to face the world as responsible people. In the nation it is just the same. It makes one group superior to another, while both groups look out for their own interests instead of the good of the whole country. Appreciation and encouragement in home and country send people out willing to go the whole way, willing to give their very best for someone else's good. In the years ahead Canada must stand united or she will fall prey to the "isms" that are seeking to gain power for themselves.

I expect "the Government" or "George" to do the job of winning the war—it won't be done, for in

Britain---The Occupied Country

(By R. P. MacLean)

At a dinner meeting in Glasgow the other night there were five Scots present and five Canadians, two New Zealanders, one American and one Englishman. The latter insisted that he represented "the occupied country." The phrase appealed to me as peculiarly descriptive of the country at this time and it also seemed to describe in some measure the visit of eight Canadian editors to Britain.

Britain these days is truly an occupied country. American uniforms are everywhere, and the same might be said about Canadian uniforms, but in a lesser degree. Then, in addition there are the uniforms of the Free French, the Poles, the Norwegians, the Czechs and a dozen other countries. Add to these the thousands of persons from a dozen European countries who have managed to get to Britain, and it is not difficult to realize that "occupied" is not entirely a misnomer.

It is for this reason, then, that I have adopted the phrase as some general link for this series of articles. Impressions, incidents and paragraphs. It may be as well to say here that some articles will be long, full dress, detailed and dry descriptions of this or that phase of the British war effort as we found it; others will be merely a series of short paragraphs intended to paint the general color of the background picture of the country after five years of war, as it appeared to us during our visit.

First a word about the party. It was selected by the British Ministry of Information and consisted of eight Canadian editors drawn from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. There were four representatives of daily newspapers: R. J. Rankin, of the "Halifax Herald"; Vernon Kipp, of the "Ottawa Journal"; J. Barnard, the French Canadian representative, editor of "Le Soleil", Quebec City; George V. Ferguson, "Winnipeg Free Press"; C. J. Allbon, of the "Springhill, N.S. Record" and R. P. MacLean, of the Kelowna B.C. "Courier" were the representatives of the Canadian weekly newspapers. K. R. Wilson, Ottawa representative of the "Financial Post", represented the business papers and magazines, while Wilson Woodside, foreign editor of "Toronto Saturday Night" and a radio commentator, represented radio and the luxury type of publication.

The party left Canada as the guests of the British Government and remained such until it returned to Canadian soil.

HERE'S MY FEED PROBLEM...

My dairy feeds seem to be costing more than they should.

HERE'S THE ANSWER...

You may be overfeeding some of your cows. Keep a written chart of milk production and switch to "Miracle" Dairy Feeds. Tests show that "Miracle" Dairy Feeds cut feed costs about 20% and increase milk production as high as 25%.

ASK FOR
 "MIRACLE" FEEDS

The Ministry of Information—hereinafter called the "M of I"—was kind enough to turn us over to the Canadian forces for the first week of our stay, enabling us to make a great many contacts with friends and see our own country-men in training in Britain.

Thereafter, however, the M of I regained the lost ground as far as time was concerned, for our days and nights were crowded and we were rushed hither and thither with but little time to ourselves, very little time to even make notes of what we saw and heard let alone attempt to write an article. Some of the daily men did attempt—and succeeded—in turning out some articles but they were done in the wee small hours of the morning and the finished product did not satisfy the writer.

This series of articles has not been planned. They are written without any regard to proper order and articles which should be closely linked may be widely separated. They will be written as the subject appeals to the time and mood and circumstances.

The intention was to write many of them on the ship coming across the Atlantic but that intention did not reckon with the censor who put gobs of great red sealing wax all over the envelopes containing our notes, and we were unable to open them until we reached Canada. The result was that on the ship we were "notified" and it made an excellent excuse to postpone the return to earning our living the hard way.

An attempt was made to write on the ship, though, but most of us found that hitting the typewriter keys on a rolling ship in the small confines of a ship's cabin, with the moving wall in front of us, was not conducive to good health and most of us quickly gave up the attempt!

In passing it should be told that much that we saw and heard was strictly "off the record". In newspaper parlance, that is the phrase which means it is entirely secret and cannot be talked of or written about. Of course, those are the things which would be of most interest to the readers and the things which a newspaper man would really love to "go to town" on. However, on those things, "mum" must be the word.

Of every thousand apparently healthy people, three will be found to have active tuberculosis, if examined by X-ray.

Sanatorium treatment for tuberculosis began on this continent at Saranac Lake, N.Y., where Dr. Edward L. Trudeau in 1885 built a little cottage for two patients.

Vancouver—It has been learned here from the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways that large quantities of fish from the West Coast of Canada will be sent for relief of people of war-torn Europe. An order has been placed by UNNRA for 14,500,000 pounds of fish from the West and East coasts and an additional order is expected that will bring the total up to 20 million pounds. The order calls for herring from the West Coast while the East Coast is to supply chicken haddie, mackerel and also herring.

COMMON COLD BAD

FOR POULTRY FLOCK

During the fall and early winter, the most common cause of trouble in the poultry flock is the common cold. This ailment will cause losses by interrupting egg production and by predisposing the birds to more serious diseases such as roup and bronchitis. It pays to take precautions in the autumn to prevent colds. The common causes are exposure to draughts, dampness, or a sudden drop in temperature. Poor ventilation and dirty quarters are also contributing causes. The prevention of colds is less costly and more effective than medicinal cures.

In the treatment of colds, the first action should be directed toward correcting the faulty condition that gave rise to the trouble. A mild physic should be given, consisting of one-half to one pound of Epsom salts per hundred birds. The dose should be repeated if necessary. A ten per cent solution of argyrol is an effective anti-septic agent in the treatment of colds. By the use of a medicated dropper, or a sewing machine oil can, a drop of the solution can be placed in each eye and each nostril, and in the cleft in the roof of the mouth. Drinking vessels may be the means of spreading colds. A few grains of potassium permanganate, sufficient to colour the water a deep purple, will act as a disinfectant and reduce the danger.

REGULATIONS FOR

HONEY PRODUCERS

Under the rationing regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, beekeepers who produce less than 4,000 pounds of honey per year are required to register with their local ration board. Coupons collected on sales of honey must be turned in once a month to the local ration board in an envelope provided by the Board at the time of registration. It is illegal for farmers to use their own purchase coupons obtained through the sale of any rationed product.

Producers of more than 4,000 pounds of honey per year must register either by mail or in person at the nearest branch of the ration administration. This class of producer must also open a ration coupon bank account and file monthly reports of sales. Those who registered in 1943 do not need to register again.

LIST COMMON CAUSES

MOST FIRES ON FARMS

Because of the comparative isolation of most farms, an outbreak of fire is a terrifying experience to farm folk, and fire prevention is a constant thought in the farmer's mind. At the same time there is consolation in the dictum of the Fire Marshal of Nova Scotia, who has made special studies of farm fires and their origin. He says: "All fires start because of something that we do or something we have neglected to do." A study of farm fires indicates that there are at least 13 common causes for fires in rural areas. They are: chimneys of sub-standard construction; sparks from dirty chimneys; smoke pipes and stoves installed without regard to radiation of heat; seasonal grass and brush fires; spontaneous ignition of hay through dumping badly cured hay; worn-out shingle roofs; lighted lanterns; mis-use of electrical equipment; threatening operations with gasoline power; gasoline vehicles stored in barns; matches and smoking in out-buildings; trespass by thieves; and lightning.

With regard to spontaneous ignition of hay, most farmers are very careful in harvesting and storing the hay crop, but one crop of badly cured hay is a continual menace. In lubricants, spontaneous ignition does not occur, whether the lubricant is soaked in rags or not, but they burn fast when ignited. Grease, wax and oils of vegetable origin when smeared or soaked in rags are definitely dangerous. The rags should not be allowed to lie about. If they are not disposed of by burning, they should be washed.

Gasoline has to be used, but great care should be taken, because gasoline under certain conditions is highly explosive. All filling operations should be done in daylight, and it is better to keep gasoline in a strong locked building remote from other buildings. Plenty of ventilation at floor level and above is necessary. A gasoline container should never be over-filled. Gasoline expands and forces its way outside the container.

World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

SCARCITY AND ABUNDANCE

Some time ago in this column I remarked that there never had been an instance of unavailability of wheat to farmers for their wheat when no great wheat surplus existed. A publication in Alberta comments on this, saying "That is the trouble with the speculative system of grain marketing; it cannot tolerate surpluses. It can only operate on an economy of scarcity." Then they state further "That the aim should be to obtain an abundance for all."

I am surprised to hear this for I have always thought that the real business of any marketing system was to market surpluses, and so make the wheat available to hungry consumers.

All systems of grain marketing have always operated on an economy of scarcity, for the simple reason that wheat has always been scarce in the world. There never has been enough wheat produced to feed all the people, and never will be in our time. I venture to say, however, that if ever the world should be fortunate enough to enjoy a real abundance of wheat, then we may be sure the open "Futures" system of marketing would do a thorough job, as long as it is not interfered with by Governments, in distributing that abundance from producer to consumer, so ensuring that producers would obtain a satisfactory price, and that consumers could enjoy the abundance.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN

THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS
Italy will need to import an estimated ten million bushels of wheat this year for use in liberated areas. Cereal crops have been damaged by drought in a number of South American countries, which include Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay. Great Britain reports a wheat crop of 118 million bushels, slightly less than in 1943.

The U.S. income from farm marketings in 1944 is officially estimated at $19,800,000,000 3% above that of last year. In South Africa rains have relieved the drought which had damaged small grain crops in the north. Hungary reports that good yields of wheat, barley, rye and oats were harvested this year; qualities are said to be satisfactory.

Freedom after all means freedom to help others, not just to help yourself.

Tomorrow's hope is not the power of a few men sitting in high places but of everybody standing in all places for the highest ideals.

N.W. Air Command RCAF

Edmonton—Although the North West Staging Route is generally considered as primarily concerned with air traffic, maintenance of its bases which extend from Edmonton to the Alaska border has involved the RCAF's Northwest Air Command in one of the biggest, and certainly the toughest trucking operation in the service.

RCAF trucks are operating constantly over the Alaska Highway between Dawson Creek and Whitehorse, a distance of 917 miles by road. All but the highest-priority freight reach as the air fields by truck, in quantities which now total up to between 300 and 400 tons a month. Some of this freight, especially perishable food, is rushed over the Highway in express trucks, which, by a system of relieving drivers, cover the distance from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse in 36 hours, virtually a nonstop journey. Other less urgent freight goes in a more leisurely fashion; it takes 7 to 9 days for the round trip from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse and back again. If the needs are so urgent that even the 36-hour fast schedule is not good enough, then the freight travels by air in one of the DC3's of the North West Air Command heavy transport Squadron.

In charge of all North West Air Command's transportation problems is a man who for 25 years before joining the RCAF, was in the transportation business S/L R.M. "Bob" Maze, former traffic manager for Marshall Lines in Edmonton. Maze practically lives, breathes, and eats transportation. On top of his civilian experience he served with RCAF Port Transit Units at three East coast Canadian ports before returning to Western Canada to handle problems of air and surface transportation into Canada's far northwest. Maze returned to RCAF duty in his own home town almost by accident. In 1942, he was posted to No. 11 Equipment Depot in Calgary and was working on transport problems there when it was found that railway shipments of RCAF supplies urgently needed for North West Staging Route bases, then in the course of construction, were being delayed on the congested routes of central and northern Alberta. Maze was sent to Edmonton to untangle these shipments and get them on their way to the railhead at Dawson Creek. A trip which was to have taken a few days has extended into permanent posting that has lasted for more than two years, and Maze now handles all shipments of passenger and freight from Edmonton to the north.

When the Alaska Highway was finally opened to regular traffic, and became available for shipments of freight by road, Maze was appointed to investigate possibilities of developing a RCAF freight transit unit to handle the problem. Together with Sgt. Robert Whyte, of Vivian, Man., who incidentally is still stationed at Dawson Creek, Maze made a preliminary survey in July, 1943, by driving from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse and back over the highway, which was then nearing completion. As a result of this investigation, regular trucking operation with RCAF vehicles began in December, 1943, and is still continuing with a volume of freight which has increased every month since.

The Highway unit's problems have not been confined merely to the question of keeping the freight on the move and seeing that isolated RCAF bases do not run out of food. Conveying articles, such as fresh meat, eggs, and vegetables from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse as well as to the bases in between meant that precautions must be taken to protect these highly perishable commodities from frost in the winter and from heat in the summer. First attempted solution to the freezing problems was the installation of automobile heaters inside the body of each truck, but these were found to be inadequate for the purpose. Men of the freight transit unit went to work to devise their own solution. They bought three-section radiators such as are used in ordinary domestic hot water systems, laid these flat on the floor of the trucks, and simply ran an exhaust pipe from the engine. In one end of the radiator and out the other. This was found to provide all the heat required.

The problems of refrigeration in summer was just as important. Mechanical refrigeration plants were considered, but the relatively rough surface of the highway causes so much vibration inside the trucks that this resulted in damage to the refrigeration machinery. As a result a much simpler solution was devised. Dry ice was placed in racks inside the trucks, duck boards were placed on the floor to permit free circulation of air, the whole body of the truck insulated, and as a result meat can now be carried all the way from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse and arrive perfectly fresh at the other end. These are only two of the problems which have been met and overcome. Operation of the unit has gained for the RCAF much useful information regarding operation of highway traffic in the far northwest, and also has helped release transport aircraft for use in vital war theatres.

Maze is careful to point out that men who drive the trucks were hand-picked in the first place. "Today," he adds, "With their experience behind them, they operate with the smooth efficiency of a first-class trucking concern."

CABINET CHANGES WIN

CONFIDENCE IN PEACE PLANS
OTTAWA—Federal cabinet reorganization looking toward postwar social security and prosperity has, on the whole, been well received by the Canadian public. Not only the calibre of the men who will head the new departments, but the government's action in establishing them well before the end of the war, has evoked confidence that the vast program of economic and social measures will be efficiently and aggressively carried out.

Claxton Heads up Health & Welfare

Brooks Claxton, Montreal lawyer, who will administer the big department of National Health and Welfare made a brilliant record as parliamentary assistant to Premier King. At 46, he is the youngest man in the cabinet and is a veteran of World War I, in which he was decorated for bravery in action. He is co-author of the family allowances bill and had demonstrated his progressive outlook. His ability, combined with his interest in the everyday man and women, assures capable and sympathetic leadership in the task to which he has been appointed. Hon. C. D. Howe has demonstrated his ability not only in leading Canada to a war production record unsurpassed anywhere, but before that in creation and development of Trans Canada Air Lines—often taken as a model for those of larger nations—and in his improvement of the operation and finances of the C.N.R. as minister of transport. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, a veteran of the last war, with unparalleled experience in administering affairs of returned men, heads the new Department of Veterans Affairs. The three new departments will co-operate closely to avert any economic setback such as followed the last war. As Minister of Reconstruction it is felt that Mr. Howe will give the energetic leadership this post-war demands and can bring to bear his experience in creative enterprise to best advantage.

Gordon sees jobs for million

Donald Gordon, canny Scot chairman of the wartime prices and trade board told the Canadian Congress of Labor in Quebec that there will be 1,000,000 more jobs in Canada after the war than there were before. Not given to over-optimism, his estimate of the government's postwar economic plans is reassuring. Mr. Gordon warned labor that high wages were not the only important thing for their financial well being. Maintenance of employment after the war and the buying value of the dollar in terms of goods and services are just as important, he said. Controls will be maintained to prevent disastrous postwar inflation, he promised. Export Controls Combine in Post-War.

Government contracts for food exports are likely to continue for some time after the war, J. G. Taggart, chairman of the Agriculture Prices Support Board, asserted in addressing an agricultural meeting at Quebec. Present export contracts for beef and bacon are sustaining the prices of all meats sold in Canada and overseas sales of cheese helping to maintain good prices for all dairy products, he said. The government now is also aiding the agricultural price structure by direct subsidies on butter-fat and hogs. When present big export sales wane, or there is a sign of price slump for agricultural products, the new board will step in and function fully under the Agricultural Prices Support Act, Mr. Taggart stated. The board powers are ample to assure good prices, he indicated. It can buy any designated farm product at a designated price and no producer need sell below the figure set by the board. There will be little regimentation under the new system as there is no interference with any arrangements which producers may set up for handling, processing and marketing their own products. Under the act prices would be such "as would assure an adequate and stable return." He emphasized the importance to agriculture of the government wide program for expansion of export trade after the war.

MORE GOODS ANTICIPATED

Increase in the supply of civilian goods "as fast as conditions allow" is the prime concern of the Prices Board, said Chairman Donald Gordon in a recent address to the Trades and Labour Congress.

Wartime emergency controls imposed to conserve war material and labour "have no merit at all" as a permanent arrangement, Mr. Gordon said. He explained that competition and freedom for newcomers is a prerequisite to a healthy and prosperous economy. Unnecessary continuance of controls would retard competition and production and strengthen only the position of established firms.

The Prices Board intends to eliminate controls as soon as possible to give industry time to plan its own course, Mr. Gordon continued but warned, "we are not out of the woods yet and cannot abandon any controls over production and distribution which are still needed."

THE fight against V.D. is a family affair...

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice... fireworks... garden...
chubby babies...

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives... because they spell happiness... contentment.

But we know that these things don't "just happen." They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Veneral Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill infants, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN... RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a protection no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, may know for sure that her baby will be all she dreamed of. Syphilis in the expectant mother rarely shows outward signs, and it is no respecter of persons. An early check-up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is wise to KNOW FOR SURE in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine confidential blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is... a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

Hints for the Household

BUGLE CALL BRIDES LOVE PARTIES

Even if your favorite bugle call bride-to-be is a bit rushed, you can manage a party that can be crowded into her busy schedule if you plan an informal treat.

A self-service supper fits into the hectic tempo of furlough wedding activities. Deck the table with fresh flowers and a tiny bride couple and serve a help-yourself menu topped glamorously with fruit meringue tarts and Spiced Coffee Froth. Remember that young people have healthy appetites, and be sure to provide generously. If you serve a decaffeinated beverage, your guests can relax and nerves without worrying over sleeping problems later on. Remember to let decaffeinated coffee percolate from 15 to 18 minutes, to bring out its rich coffee flavor. You'll find that raw fruit tarts topped with a meringue won't cut too deeply into your sugar quota.

Spiced Coffee Froth

1 cup evaporated milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Cinnamon
4 cups freshly made, hot decaffeinated coffee
Chill evaporated milk thoroughly. Then whip rapidly until stiff. Add vanilla. Place in paper cups filling half full. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Fill cups with decaffeinated coffee. Makes 8 servings.

Fruit Meringue Tarts

3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups slightly sweetened berries
Baked tart shells
Bake tart shells over inverted cup cake pans. Cool. Place fresh berries in each shell and cover with a meringue made by beating the egg whites until very stiff, and then beating in the sugar gradually. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 10 minutes or until a delicate golden brown.

Cucumber Sauce

4 cucumbers
Butter
Flour
Salt and pepper
Minced parsley or chives
Pare and quarter the cucumber and boil them, without any water, for three minutes. Drain; season with salt and pepper; roll in flour and saute in a little butter until tender. Sprinkle with parsley or chives just before the cooking is completed.

You'll find that the quick-frozen vegetables cook in about half the time you need for ordinary fresh vegetables. By following directions exactly, you'll conserve their rich store of vitamins and minerals as a nutritional dividend for the family. And be sure to remember that any of the vitamin rich liquid remaining after cooking should be used for soups and sauces.

Spinach Luncheon Platter

1 box (14 oz.) quick-frozen spinach
1/2 cup seasoned white sauce
2 tablespoons sautéed diced onion and green pepper
4 poached eggs, seasoned
Cook frozen spinach as directed on package. Drain and keep hot. Make white sauce, adding onion and green pepper. Chop hot spinach coarsely, season, and spread out on hot platter. Cover with white sauce and top with poached eggs. Makes 4 servings.
Note: Pimiento, strips, grated cheese, or coarsely chopped left-over meat may be added to sauce, if desired.

Green Bean Raribit with Potatoes

1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen green beans, Cut or French style
2 cups seasoned white sauce
1 teaspoon scraped onion
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
1/2 to 3/4 cup grated American cheese
1/2 or 3/4 hot baked potatoes
Drop frozen green beans into briskly boiling salted water, bring again to a boil, and boil 8 to 12 minutes, or until just tender. Make white sauce; when thickened, add onion, paprika, Worcestershire sauce, pimiento, cheese and beans. Stir until cheese is melted.

Break open hot potatoes, season with salt and pepper, and arrange on platter. Cover with rarebit mixture. Serves 5 to 6.

Note: If desired, 1/4 cup sliced cooked meat may be added.

Mutton Stew

2 pounds neck, plate or shoulder of mutton
2 pounds potatoes
6 onions
Salt and pepper
3 to 4 cups hot water

Cut the mutton into small pieces and arrange in a stew-pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and add hot water. Cover closely and let the stew simmer for one hour, shaking the pan occasionally. Add the potatoes and onions, peeled and sliced, and cook an hour longer. Serve very hot. If desired, dumplings may be served with this stew.

CEREALS FOR LUNCH

What kind of a lunch are you serving today? Is it prepared with the "Basic 7" foods in mind?

Here are two suggested menus, followed by two cereal recipes—Waldorf style:

MENU No. 1
Vegetable Soup
Grape-Nuts Flakes
With Baked Custard and Strawberries
Milk or Cream
Beverage
MENU No. 2
Bran Flakes with Cubed Fruit Flavored Gelatin and Cottage Cheese
Milk or Cream
Cookies
Chocolate Milk

WALDORF SPECIAL

Unmold an individual baked custard in the center of a large bowl of Grape-Nuts Flakes and garnish with strawberries. Serve with milk or cream and sugar, if desired.

WINTER MEDLEY

Cut any fruit-flavored gelatin into cubes and arrange on a large bowl of 40% bran flakes; dot with cottage cheese. Serve with milk or cream and sugar, if desired.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

OVER FORTIFICATION OF MILK NOT NEEDED

CHICAGO—The increasing practice of fortifying milk with vitamins other than D, and with minerals, does not serve a public health need and, by increasing production costs, can result in decreased consumption by those in the lower economic levels who need it most, the Council on Food and Nutrition of the American Medical Association declares in a report in a recent issue of the Journal of the Association.

The Council explains, says the Journal, that it has accepted and encouraged the fortification of milk with vitamin D well beyond any natural level because of the belief that such is in the interest of public health inasmuch as vitamin D is not present in important amounts in a customary diet unless fish oils are included.

Explaining that a fortified milk had been submitted to it for acceptance, the Council says that "the question arises as to whether it is in the interest of public health to fortify milk with vitamin A, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, iron and iodine or any one of these materials."

It was explained that any deficiency of vitamin A found in the United States was at the lowest economic levels and that such persons were not likely to buy milk sold at premium. Milk more than carried its own load with regard to thiamine and riboflavin. The addition of niacin to milk would not seem to answer the problem of correcting any existing niacin deficiency while a diet containing meat, eggs, green vegetables and whole grain or enriched flour supplied the iron requirement.

Table salt had been selected as the appropriate iodine-carrying food and "it seems unwise to sanction the addition of iodine to more than one food," the report says.

In conclusion, it is stated that fortification of milk with vitamin A or any or all of the above-mentioned minerals "does not serve a public health need sufficiently to warrant Council acceptance of the fortified product."

PAPER ENCOURAGES ANTI-VD CAMPAIGN

Publicity is gradually awakening the public to the menace of VD, the Welland-Fort Colborne Tribune said in an editorial recently.

Articles in daily newspapers and magazines, radio addresses and various forms of paid publicity were hammering home the unpleasant facts which forced Canadians to look the issue in the face.

The paper remarked that the fight against venereal diseases, "for which considerable credit must be given to the Health League of Canada," became more impressive as the curtain obscuring information on the subject was lifted and authoritative facts were given the public.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written weekly for the weekly newspapers of Canada

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics. That's a phrase you read often in this column. Yet few of us realize the importance of this department which was established in 1918. The average Canadian citizen answers the questions put to him every ten years by the census taker, but those answers and those of eleven million others are probably forgotten. But they are not forgotten by the 1,100 persons employed in the Bureau of Statistics who compile a mass of pertinent facts on a multitude of subjects and make them available on demand.

For instance, if a Canadian wrote to the Bureau and asked how many cheques had passed through the Canadian banks in July of this year, quick as a flash the Bureau would reply that "4,733,461,538 cheques were cashed in Canada in July, 1944." And that's the truth.

The vast amount of data existing in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has been used by every department and agency of the government engaged in directing the war effort, and there has been an increasing demand for information from non-war departments and from the general public. Besides the statistical data, the Bureau assists war departments by lending services of trained statisticians. It gets a variety of work. One of its early war jobs was compilation of National Registration facts and figures taken in 1940. It also deals with many problems including cost-of-living, wholesale and retail trade and financial statistics, etc. This department which is so much taken for granted, does a big job.

Another effort is being made to make contact with Japanese-held prisoners-of-war and internees. The International Committee of the Red Cross has arranged a ten-word cable service between them and their Canadian next-of-kin, but its success will depend on the co-operation of the Japanese.

It is proposed that each prisoner or internee be allowed to send one cable a year at first. The prisoner's cable must be the first in the exchange and next-of-kin will not be able to send a message until they have heard from their relative in the prison camp. If the Japanese government does its part, it is hoped that the first cables will start coming in about Christmas time. Costs of the cables both ways will be paid by the Canadian Red Cross Society.

In order to ease the difficult position which exists in obtaining sufficient professional and non-professional workers for hospitals, the Dominion Department of Labour has announced that in future such workers can be hired direct without having to pass through the local employment offices of Selective Service. However, employment offices will continue to secure help for hospitals and will be kept advised of placements by the hospital authorities.

Thousands of women all over Canada work for the Canadian Red Cross and many have been doing so since the outbreak of war. It should give them a warm feeling of a job well done to know the splendid results of that collective effort.

By arrangement with the British Red Cross, the Canadian Red Cross is now furnishing two-thirds of all food parcels sent to allied prisoners, except those from the United States. The new program calls for the packing of 180,000 food parcels a week in Canada in an attempt to send one parcel per man per week. This is an increase of 90,000. The cost of these parcels will be $2,700,000 in 1944. That includes 80,000 parcels a week for British prisoners in Europe (which includes Canadians), 80,000 for other allied prisoners in Europe and 30,000 which will include civilians in the Far East.

At present Canada is budgeting to pay $5,500,000 of the total. Though the International Red Cross at Geneva distributes them, the parcels are sent individually to prisoners. The purpose is to supplement the prisoners' diet from a nutritional standpoint. The parcels, 11 lbs. each, contain this: 16 oz. whole milk powder; 16 oz. butter; 4 oz. cheese; 16 oz. jam or marmalade; 10 oz. pork luncheon meat; 8 oz. salmon; 4 oz. sardine or kipper; 8 oz. raisins; 8 oz. dried prunes; 8 oz. sugar; 13 oz. corned beef; 16 oz. pilot biscuits; 1 oz. salt and pepper; 4 oz. tea; 2 oz. soap; 8 oz. eating chocolate. Up to August 31, 1944, the Red Cross has sent 11,837,974 parcels overseas.

Have the children avoid mud and puddles is the advice given to mothers by WPT's Consumer branch. Children can do much to keep themselves well-shod during the winter months. The report is that over a million more shoes were made in 1943 than in 1939. However, the demand still exceeds the supply—partly because there are more children and partly because the children who used to wear sneakers five months of the year, now wear leather footwear all the year round.

The best leather, of course, is going into shoes for Canada's fighting men—Every man in the infantry gets three pairs a year. There is need, then, for everyone to practice conservation of shoe leather by observing two simple rules—dry shoes away from direct heat and treat them regularly with special oils to replace the natural oil in the leather.

For October, November and December, the Prices Board has authorized manufacture of another 10,000 washing machines. This is news which should tickle housewives who need them. But that exhilaration must be tempered by the knowledge that there may be some difficulty in getting parts from the United States so all of the batch authorized may not reach the market. However, any that are available may be sold without restriction. Since May, 1943, permits were issued to make over 23,000 but up to June of this year only 15,535 were actually turned out.

Smokers will be interested in the report that Canada's production of leaf tobacco in 1944, estimated at 102,104,750 pounds is an increase of 47.8% over last year's production. Estimated acreage totalled 89,069, an increase of 25%. Total production of flue-cured tobacco was 83,323,000 lbs. divided as follows: Burley 11,292,000 lbs.; dark 1,466,250 lbs.; cigar leaf 4,148,000 lbs.; pipe types 1,875,000 lbs. Higher yields in Ontario brought the Canadian average yield per acre to 1,129 lbs., an increase of 150 lbs.

The KIDS ARE CERTAINLY TOUGH ON SHOES!

1,300,000 MORE PAIRS OF CHILDREN'S SHOES LAST YEAR

In the last twelve months Canadian manufacturers made for Canadian children about 25% more shoes than in 1939—a fine job—done by the organization and direction of production by this Board's Footwear Administration and the co-operation of manufacturers. And this was accomplished while they were making more essential type shoes for war workers, who wear out their shoes faster than they do in their normal employment.

about the things you buy in wartime

THE DISAPPEARING ACT OF RUBBER-SOLE SHOES

In normal times most young Canadians got at least one pair of rubber-soled, canvas-top shoes a year. But natural rubber supplies fell into enemy hands, and the manufacture of rubber footwear was drastically curtailed. We're now using reclaimed and synthetic rubber in these shoes—there have been more of them this year and there will be more next year. Leather-soled shoes have had to be used in place of this rubber-soled footwear but shoes made of leather need more care than running shoes. When they don't get it they wear out more quickly; when they get wet they must be dried slowly, away from direct heat—and they should be greased also. It's not always a case of poor quality; it's poor care.

LEATHER GOES TO WAR

You've got to have good strong leather for children's shoes, but the soldiers are taking most of ours for their boots. For these leathers, a substantial portion of the hides came from South America and other countries. War cut down these imports and there have been difficulties in getting enough of these and our own hides tanned into leather due to shortage of workers. The production of high grade leather shoes has, however, been maintained at the highest level consistent with the labour and materials available. While shoe factories have been working overtime, factory capacity for civilian shoes cannot be expanded in wartime and it's not possible to change plants from the manufacture of one type of shoe to another—for instance, from women's to children's. The processes, the machines and the lasts are different.

shoes are of the highest quality leathers obtainable, leaving the other grades of leather for civilian use. Airmen need leather for jackets and mitts. War factories need leather for belting and farmers need leather for harness. Leather—the best leathers—has gone to war.

TURNING HIDES INTO SHOES

There are very large war uses of leather—for instance, in footwear. A soldier requires four pairs of shoes in the first year of his service and about three pairs per year thereafter. But, what is more important, he needs to have his shoes re-soled four or five times a year. His shoes are of the highest quality leathers obtainable, leaving the other grades of leather for civilian use. Airmen need leather for jackets and mitts. War factories need leather for belting and farmers need leather for harness. Leather—the best leathers—has gone to war.

The teacher wishes to thank the parents and pupils for their co-operation in helping to reach their objective of $38 since the beginning of school, this was War Stamps bought in three divisions, Army Navy and Airforce.

JOINS BBC

Flight Lieutenant John S. Peach, R.C.A.F., has returned to England to join the North American Service of the BBC. The former Vancouver producer and commentator went to England in March of 1941 as CBC correspondent and joined the R.C.A.F. "over there" in the Spring of '42. He served in London as head of R.C.A.F. radio public relations until his return to Canada this summer. He is being replaced in Ottawa by Pilot Officer W. H. Wilkes.

FORUM CHAIRMAN

WATSON PORTER has been appointed chairman of the first series of broadcasts in CBC's National Farm Radio Forum, which commences on Monday, October 30, when the program will be heard at 9:30 p.m. in CBC's Midwestern Region. Mr. Porter is widely known as editor of The Farmer's Advocate and Home Magazine, and as secretary of the Ontario Conservation and Reforestation Association, which he helped to organize in 1936.

The chief post-war problem will be to keep living FOR our country and not ON it.

To solve the problem of disunity, subtract from what divides and add to what unites.

We will fail in changing human affairs till we succeed in changing human beings.

To help a man attain his highest may mean caring for him at his lowest.
